Abstract: Today, tourism and services are developing widely all over the world, and this leads to the emergence of new types of tourism. This article reveals the importance of tourism in the economy, its place in the economy of Uzbekistan, development prospects and opportunities of new types in our country. Tourism is a product of human civilization. This concept has its own theoretical and practical interpretation. Because of this, in order to interpret it comprehensively, it requires looking at and interpreting it from aspects such as people's movement, economic category, political situation, and active recreation.

Key words: new types of tourism, natural biological resources, visa regimes, museum tourism, medical tourism.

Tourism plays an important role in today's economy; moreover, it is being improved and updated day by day. Until now, man has turned production areas, natural biological resources, and people's lifestyles into a separate tourism field in order to see the areas of his interest, satisfaction, learning, selection features and opportunities.

According to current tourism experts, the main types of tourism in the world consist of more than 60 destinations. The wonderful, perfect and amazing products and structures of the manufacturing industry or the group of people, attracting the flow of people, gave rise to the tourism sector, and the increase in the number of species in the sector also depends on these factors. It should be noted that the tourism sector is an integral part of the world community, it is important for the development of the economy of countries and regions, and it is one of the priority sectors of the world economy of the 21st century.

Tourism is a product of human civilization. This concept has its own theoretical and practical interpretation. Because of this, in order to interpret it comprehensively, it requires looking at and interpreting it from aspects such as people's movement, economic category, political situation, and active recreation. In the process of covering the topic of tourists' travel goals, it is necessary to pay special attention to the goals of tourism, there is no tourism without goals. Learning it is an important issue. At the root of each trip or tour is the main purpose that causes it, according to which it is determined that this trip belongs to a certain type of tourism, the tourist and his type are included in one or another type of statistics, and various privileges are given to him.

Tourism has a significant impact on the social, cultural and educational spheres of the countries. In the framework of peacekeeping based on international relations and the respect for the dreams and hopes of individuals and the whole society, tourism is a positive and permanent factor for people to learn and understand each other, as well as a basis for achieving a higher level of respect and trust between people.

Tourism has become a factor of social equality, harmony between people and nations, and personal development. Its cultural and spiritual content is huge. Tourism is a means of obtaining information about the achievements of the human mind and getting acquainted with them, and it allows enjoying the historical and cultural values of peoples. In practice, the spiritual essence of tourism should be superior to the economic and material criteria, and it should help the human personality to develop harmoniously in all aspects, should be educational and educational, and should ensure equal rights in determining the lifestyle and life.

When studying the goals of tourism, the types of tourism and its various forms should be described, and it should be considered about the forms of tourism, the purpose of the trip, the method of movement, the means of accommodation of tourists, the number of participants and other classifications.

Knowing the motivations that give rise to travel, effective tourist policy and tourism will help the growth of the economy.

We know that the future of tourism is bright and one of the most interesting fields, where there are constant changes and updates.

It is worth noting that development of tourism, creation of modern types of tourism, offering high-quality service is one of the important factors in increasing the flow of tourists. I have tried to provide information on the topic "Prospects for the development of new types of travel in Uzbekistan" about ecological tourism, agrotourism, museum tourism, medical tourism and special types of tourism, as well as the promising work being done in this field in our country.

We know that, unlike many other industries, in tourism, goods and services are not delivered to the customer, but tourists and travelers themselves come to the area where goods and services are produced and use them directly. They want to get a good impression by paying for the goods or services they receive and visiting existing tourist or cultural facilities. Therefore, the presence of various touristic, cultural, natural or historical objects in the regions that tourists want to visit and the ability to provide adequate services is one of the most important factors for the development of the industry.

Uzbekistan has such favorable natural and climatic conditions, rich historical and cultural heritage, and at the same time sufficient resources for the development of both domestic and international tourism. We know Uzbekistan well as a belt on the "Great Silk Road" that connects the East and the West.

The main task facing the tourism industry is to create a highly profitable tourism network aimed at meeting the needs of domestic and international tourism, taking into account the natural climatic, recreational, socio-economic and historical cultural potential of Uzbekistan. Uzbekistan has all the necessary resources for the development of tourism. Our Motherland, located on the Great Silk Road, has favorable natural and climatic conditions, a rich historical and cultural heritage, and at the same times a high potential for the development of both domestic and international tourism. Although certain works have been carried out to improve the tourism industry in our country, the work that needs to be done in this regard remains an urgent problem. Currently, the level of use of available opportunities is very low. Statistical data show that today only 5-8 percent of the more than 8 thousand natural and cultural heritage objects that exist in our country are operating for tourist purposes.

Today, comprehensive measures are being implemented in the country to develop tourism as one of the strategic sectors that ensure the diversification of the national economy, the rapid development of regions, the creation of new jobs, the increase of incomes and living standards of the population, and the increase of the country's investment attractiveness. Liberalization of the visa regime, simplification of the procedure for registration of foreign citizens, granting of privileges and preferences for the development of the tourism network made it possible to effectively promote the potential of national tourism in domestic and foreign markets.

Ensuring the operation of tourist enterprises in an economically free environment, creating an environment of free competition in the field, reducing state interference in the activities of enterprises, expanding international relations, creating the development of measures to attract a large number of foreign investments, creating a material and technical base that can respond to international students, the presence of local infrastructure based on international standards and the development in many such areas create enough opportunities for the prospects of the tourism sector, it is emphasized by industry experts in our country.

I think that in the near future, our country will achieve great achievements in the world of tourism and will undoubtedly take a place among the developed countries.
